THE WOMEN'S WORLD CUP HAS JUST BEGUN, AND IF YOU'RE FEELING INSPIRED TO GET OUT ON THE GRASS AND TRY IT FOR YOURSELF, FOLLOW THESE TIPS BELOW.

REMEMBER
Listen to your body and don't push your limits. If you experience pain, stop.

STUDY THE SPORT!

Watching games is a great way to learn what each position does and how you think it'll play to your strengths. Do you have good reflexes like a goalie, or fast footwork like a striker?

CONTROL THE BALL!

Superstar footballers like Fran Kirby can dribble past any defender! Practice dribbling by moving the ball using the inside of your feet and then again with the outsides to become a weaving wonder.

DID YOU KNOW?

WOMEN'S FOOTBALL WAS BANNED BY THE FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION IN 1921! LUCKILY, THE BAN WAS LIFTED IN 1971. SINCE THEN, WE'VE SEEN LOADS OF INSPIRATIONAL FOOTBALL QUEENS!

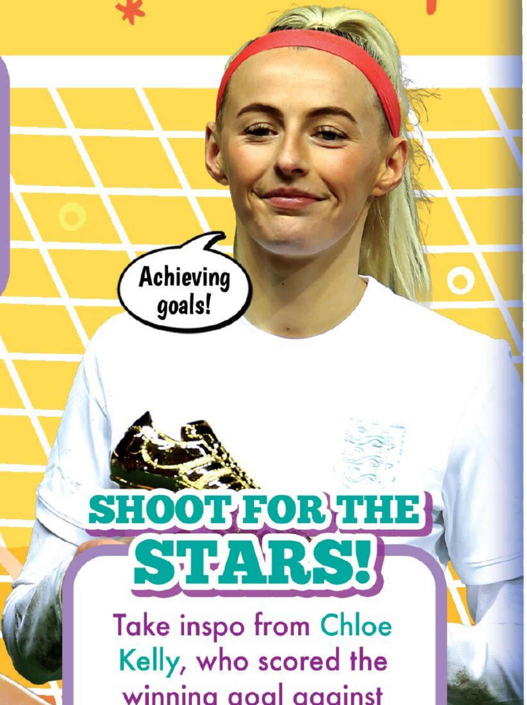
FOLLOW THE LEADER!

All teams need a good leader to cheer them on... and to cheer them up when things get tough! Leah Williamson acts as both a friend and a role model to her teammates as the captain of the Lionesses. What could you do to show good leadership?

ALL!



Achieving goals!

SHOOT FOR THE STARS!

Take inspo from Chloe Kelly, who scored the winning goal against Germany in last year's Euro Final. Start by placing two jumpers wide apart to make a goal in an open space. Bring the markers closer together with each goal you score!

JACK RYDER

Illustrated by Alice McKinley

LOST IN THE STORM

Beyond a large green valley, just before you reached the sea, there was a small house in Cornwall. It was a beautiful little cottage with a blue front door and a thatched roof, which had a tiny chimney pot smoking out the top. It was made from sandstone bricks and had four windows at the front, looking out on to a beautiful wild garden. The garden was full of flowers in bloom, as colourful as a rainbow. Next to an old front gate there stood an enormous palm tree as tall as a lamp post. A wilderness of tall, dry grass surrounded the cottage on all sides, and beyond the gate, a winding path led to a sandy cove. The days were always bright and sunny, and at night, when the moon appeared, everything was bathed in a pale silver light. The ocean glistened silently beneath the starry sky and the owls hooted in the trees all around.

Inside the little cottage there lived a girl called Pixie. She had blonde hair, which was always tied up in a scruffy ponytail, and she wore big round glasses that had thick red rims. Her deep brown eyes were the colour of autumn and her button nose was splashed with freckles.

Pixie was an only child. She lived with her parents, who adored her. Pixie's mother taught her about the sea. She told her marvellous adventure stories about brave pirates sailing the seas on tall ships. They were always filled with mystery and danger and when Pixie heard these tales of the sea, shivers ran down her back in excitement.

Pixie usually spent her mornings with her father, having breakfast together. Then they would walk down to the sea and practise skimming stones across the water. Later in the day the family would pack a picnic and head off together in their boat. It was a very small wooden boat and was just big enough to carry the three of them.

Very slowly, her father would row them towards an old lighthouse, which stood on a bit of land jutting out into the sea. Pixie had never been inside the lighthouse before, but she always wondered what it would be like. Perhaps it is empty and filled with seagull poop, she often thought.

But there was something about the old lighthouse that intrigued her. It must have been over sixty metres tall and there was an enormous brass cage on the top. Pixie's father told her that the light inside the cage hadn't worked in years.

Pixie and her parents would enjoy their picnic, gently bobbing up and down on the sea, their cottage just a tiny spot in the distance. These outings were the times when Pixie was happiest. Until one Wednesday afternoon in May, when the world changed under a sky that wasn't sunny and bright, but grey and full of menace. Pixie played on the shore of the cove while her parents went out in the boat to catch crabs for supper. Suddenly, the air turned cold and the darkening clouds began roaring with thunder.

And then something terrible happened...

100% CRAFT! JOJO SIWA'S RAINBOW GARLAND

YOU WILL NEED:

- Paper
- Paintbrush
- Paint
- Sticky tape
- Scissors
- Ruler

1. Brush water over the paper using a paintbrush. Brush paint over the wet paper to create rainbow patterns.

2. Once dry, cut the painted paper into 12 x 12cm squares.

3. Fold each square back and forth into a concertina, then fold in half to make a fan. Then stick the two halves together.

4. Stick the fans together using sticky tape. Alternate the fans, so that one faces up and the next one is down, and so on.

5. Keep going until you've used all your fans, then hang the garland in your bedroom!

- CANDY FLOSS
- FIZZY LEMONADE

Place a piece of candy floss in the bottom of your glass, then top it with your fizzy lemonade. Garnish the glass with more candy floss and enjoy!

RAINBOW RAPIDS!

YOU WILL NEED:

- WATER
- FOOD COLOURING
- FIZZY LEMONADE

Fill an ice cube tray with water and add a couple drops of food colouring to each of the cube spaces. Mix and match using your favourite colours! Leave to freeze overnight before placing in a glass and topping with fizzy lemonade.

OCEAN PUNCH!

YOU WILL NEED:

- BLUE FIZZY DRINK
- VANILLA ICE CREAM
- YOUR FAVE FRUIT

Pour your blue fizzy drink into a glass. (If you don't have a blue drink, you could add a couple drops of blue food colouring to fizzy lemonade!) Top your glass with one scoop of vanilla ice cream and mix well. Top with your favourite fruit to finish!
